AYAH REFS

The long-answer structure transferred from Islamiyat
Q.3 on Malika e Saba scored a full 8/8, built the same way as the Ghazwa e Hunain answer that scored 8/8 on Islamiyat exam-05 the day before: ordered narrative, named specifics, and a closing conclusion. A technique learned in one subject moved to another unprompted.

What it showed

Item	Score	Note
MCQs	10 / 10	All correct, none blank.
Q.3, Malika e Saba	8 / 8	Structure, names and conclusion all present.
Surah names written	1 in the whole paper	Across every answer.
Ayah numbers written	0	Not once.

The gap is narrow and specific: tagging, not understanding
Structure transferred. Reference-writing did not. On Islamiyat exam-05 she wrote six correct references; on this paper, one surah name and no ayah numbers at all. The habit is subject-shaped rather than general, so it has to be drilled per subject. The 30 September Quran page was built entirely around this one habit.

Q.4: half the question answered
The question asked for teachings about Hajj and qurbani
. She wrote only about qurbani, correctly, and the Hajj half was left out. The fix given to her is to circle the word "and" in the question before starting. Noted here because the same trap was set deliberately in Chemistry exam-26 Q.5(iii) the next day, and she cleared it.
